The Demand for Skilled Healthcare Workers

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, industries and occupations related to health care, personal care and social assistance are projected to have the fastest job growth between 2010 and 2020.

Because such a large portion of the American population is entering in to their senior years, there is a growing need for skilled health care professionals. From nursing assistants to assisted living caregivers, It's clear that a variety of job opportunities are available in these health care fields for skilled and caring professionals.

Company Overview

Headquartered in Mesa, Arizona, the Arizona Medical Training Institute (AMTI) is the local leader in providing post-secondary education for students seeking careers as professionals in the areas of nursing, lab sciences and assisted living.

All nursing courses are managed and staffed by Registered Nurses, lab science courses by Medical Technologist, Medical Lab Technicians, Certified Lab Professionals and assisted living courses by Licensed Assisted Living Facility Managers.

AMTI's mission is to provide student focused training in healthcare for all the programs that the institute offers. With more than 3000 students graduating each year from AMTI, for the Nursing Assistant Program, the school boasts one of the highest State Board pass rates according to the Arizona State Board of Nursing.

Due to the schedule demands of busy students, the institute offers a wide range of class times, including evening and weekend courses. Most of the AMTI courses are considered blended, which means that e-Learning components are integrated with a traditional classroom setting to create a more effective outcome. Use of eLearning resources allows AMTI faculty to concentrate classroom activity on skill development, critical thinking approaches and knowledge essential for vocational success and/or educational progression.
